Police close in on driver

Peta McEachern

Toowoomba police are investigating a two vehicle crash after a woman was driven off the road during a dramatic hit and run at Kearneys Spring.

The woman was travelling along West Street on Tuesday afternoon, January 2, when her Mazda was struck from behind and propelled into a brick fence about 2.45pm.

The driver fled the scene in a Mazda.

A Queensland Ambulance spokesman said paramedics assessed the woman at the scene, however she declined to be taken to hospital for further assessment.

He said the woman in her 50s was not injured.

A Queensland Police Service spokesman said following the crash officers patrolled the area looking for the other vehicle, but they could not find the driver.

He said officers had since ascertained who owned the vehicle, and would be making further inquiries on Wednesday, January 3.

Investigations continue.

Change for deliveries

E-commerce companies are set to phase out text messages alerting people of when their parcels are likely to be delivered this year in an attempt to close a common entry point for cyber criminals.

That's the top prediction from Richard Thame, chief executive of Singapore Post-owned Couriers Please, who said more companies were set to switch to Amazon-style app notifications.

"It's very rare for consumers in advanced overseas economies to get a tracking link via SMS," he said. "Clickable links on mobile devices will die off over the next year. Its life has probably been prolonged in Australia."

SMishing is a tactic cyber criminals use involving sending texts with an urgent 'call to action' like seeking parcel delivery information.

Mum alleged burglar

Woman gets bail after charged over assault of officer

Peter Hardwick

A 22-year-old mother of two accused of assaulting a police officer trying to arrest her has narrowly avoided being locked up.

Because Shinead Mary Duncan was already on bail for a stealing charge when she allegedly committed more offences, it was up to her through her lawyer to show cause why her continued detention was not justified.

Police had been looking for Ms Duncan in relation to the alleged burglary and theft of a car from a home in October, Toowoomba Magistrates Court heard.

It is alleged the 22-year-old had waited outside the house while a co-accused broke into the house and that she was then a passenger in the car allegedly stolen.

Police eventually tracked her down at her mother's home in Wilsonton Heights on Tuesday, January 2.

But when they went to arrest her Ms Duncan had allegedly become verbally abusive toward them, police prosecutor Kinsley Weir told the court.

She then allegedly tried to run away but was quickly held and as police were leading her to the police vehicle, it was alleged Ms Duncan struggled and scratched the arm of one officer, Senior Constable Weir said.

Charged with serious assault of police causing bodily harm and obstructing police arising from those incidents and burglary and unlawful use of a motor vehicle related to the October matters, Ms Duncan spent the night in custody before appearing in court on Wednesday morning when her solicitor Charmaine Malam applied for bail on her behalf.

Ms Malam said it was accepted her client was in a "show cause" situation but the mother of two could live with her mother while on remand and was willing to report to police even though with no transport she would either have to walk or rely on public transport.

Magistrate Kay Ryan said the strength of the police evidence appeared strong but there was a risk Ms Duncan could spend more time in custody on remand than if she was convicted and sentenced.

Ms Ryan granted bail with all matters adjourned for mention back in the same court on January 15 to link up with Ms Duncan's other matter.

Jacklyn O'Brien

Riding more than 1000km on a tandem bike would be a challenge for any seasoned cyclist, but Toowoomba Grammar alumni Charlie Schoorl and Mitch Dight are rising to the challenge.

The pair has embarked on an epic journey from Sydney to the Gold Coast to deliver a single loaf of bread, while raising dough for a good cause.

And their unique fundraiser has a unique backstory.

Sydney-based Mitch took up making sourdough after he deemed it "hella expensive," and shared his bread-making journey on Instagram.

Back on the Gold Coast, Charlie was desperate to try some of his friend's famed bread.

Mitch promised to transport a loaf to Queensland on his bike, before Charlie decided to fly down and join him on this interstate journey.

The ride, which began on New Year's Day, has become less about delivering the bread and more about raising money and awareness for the men's mental health charity Grab Life By The Balls.

Their quest has already raised more than $6000 through GoFundMe.

Mitch's mum Jocelyn Sevil said the families were proud of the boys.

"If they can do this, they can kind of do anything they set their minds to," she said.

The tandem bike, which was given to the men by a family friend, was brought out of retirement and refurbished by the team at Giant Toowoomba.

They are planning to have completed their ride by January 10.

Energy retailers in solar bill bid

Colin Packham

Energy retailers have urged the Australian Energy Regulator to tweak how it calculates how much bills can rise in order to increase the next default market offer to compensate them for the impact of a rapid rise in rooftop solar.

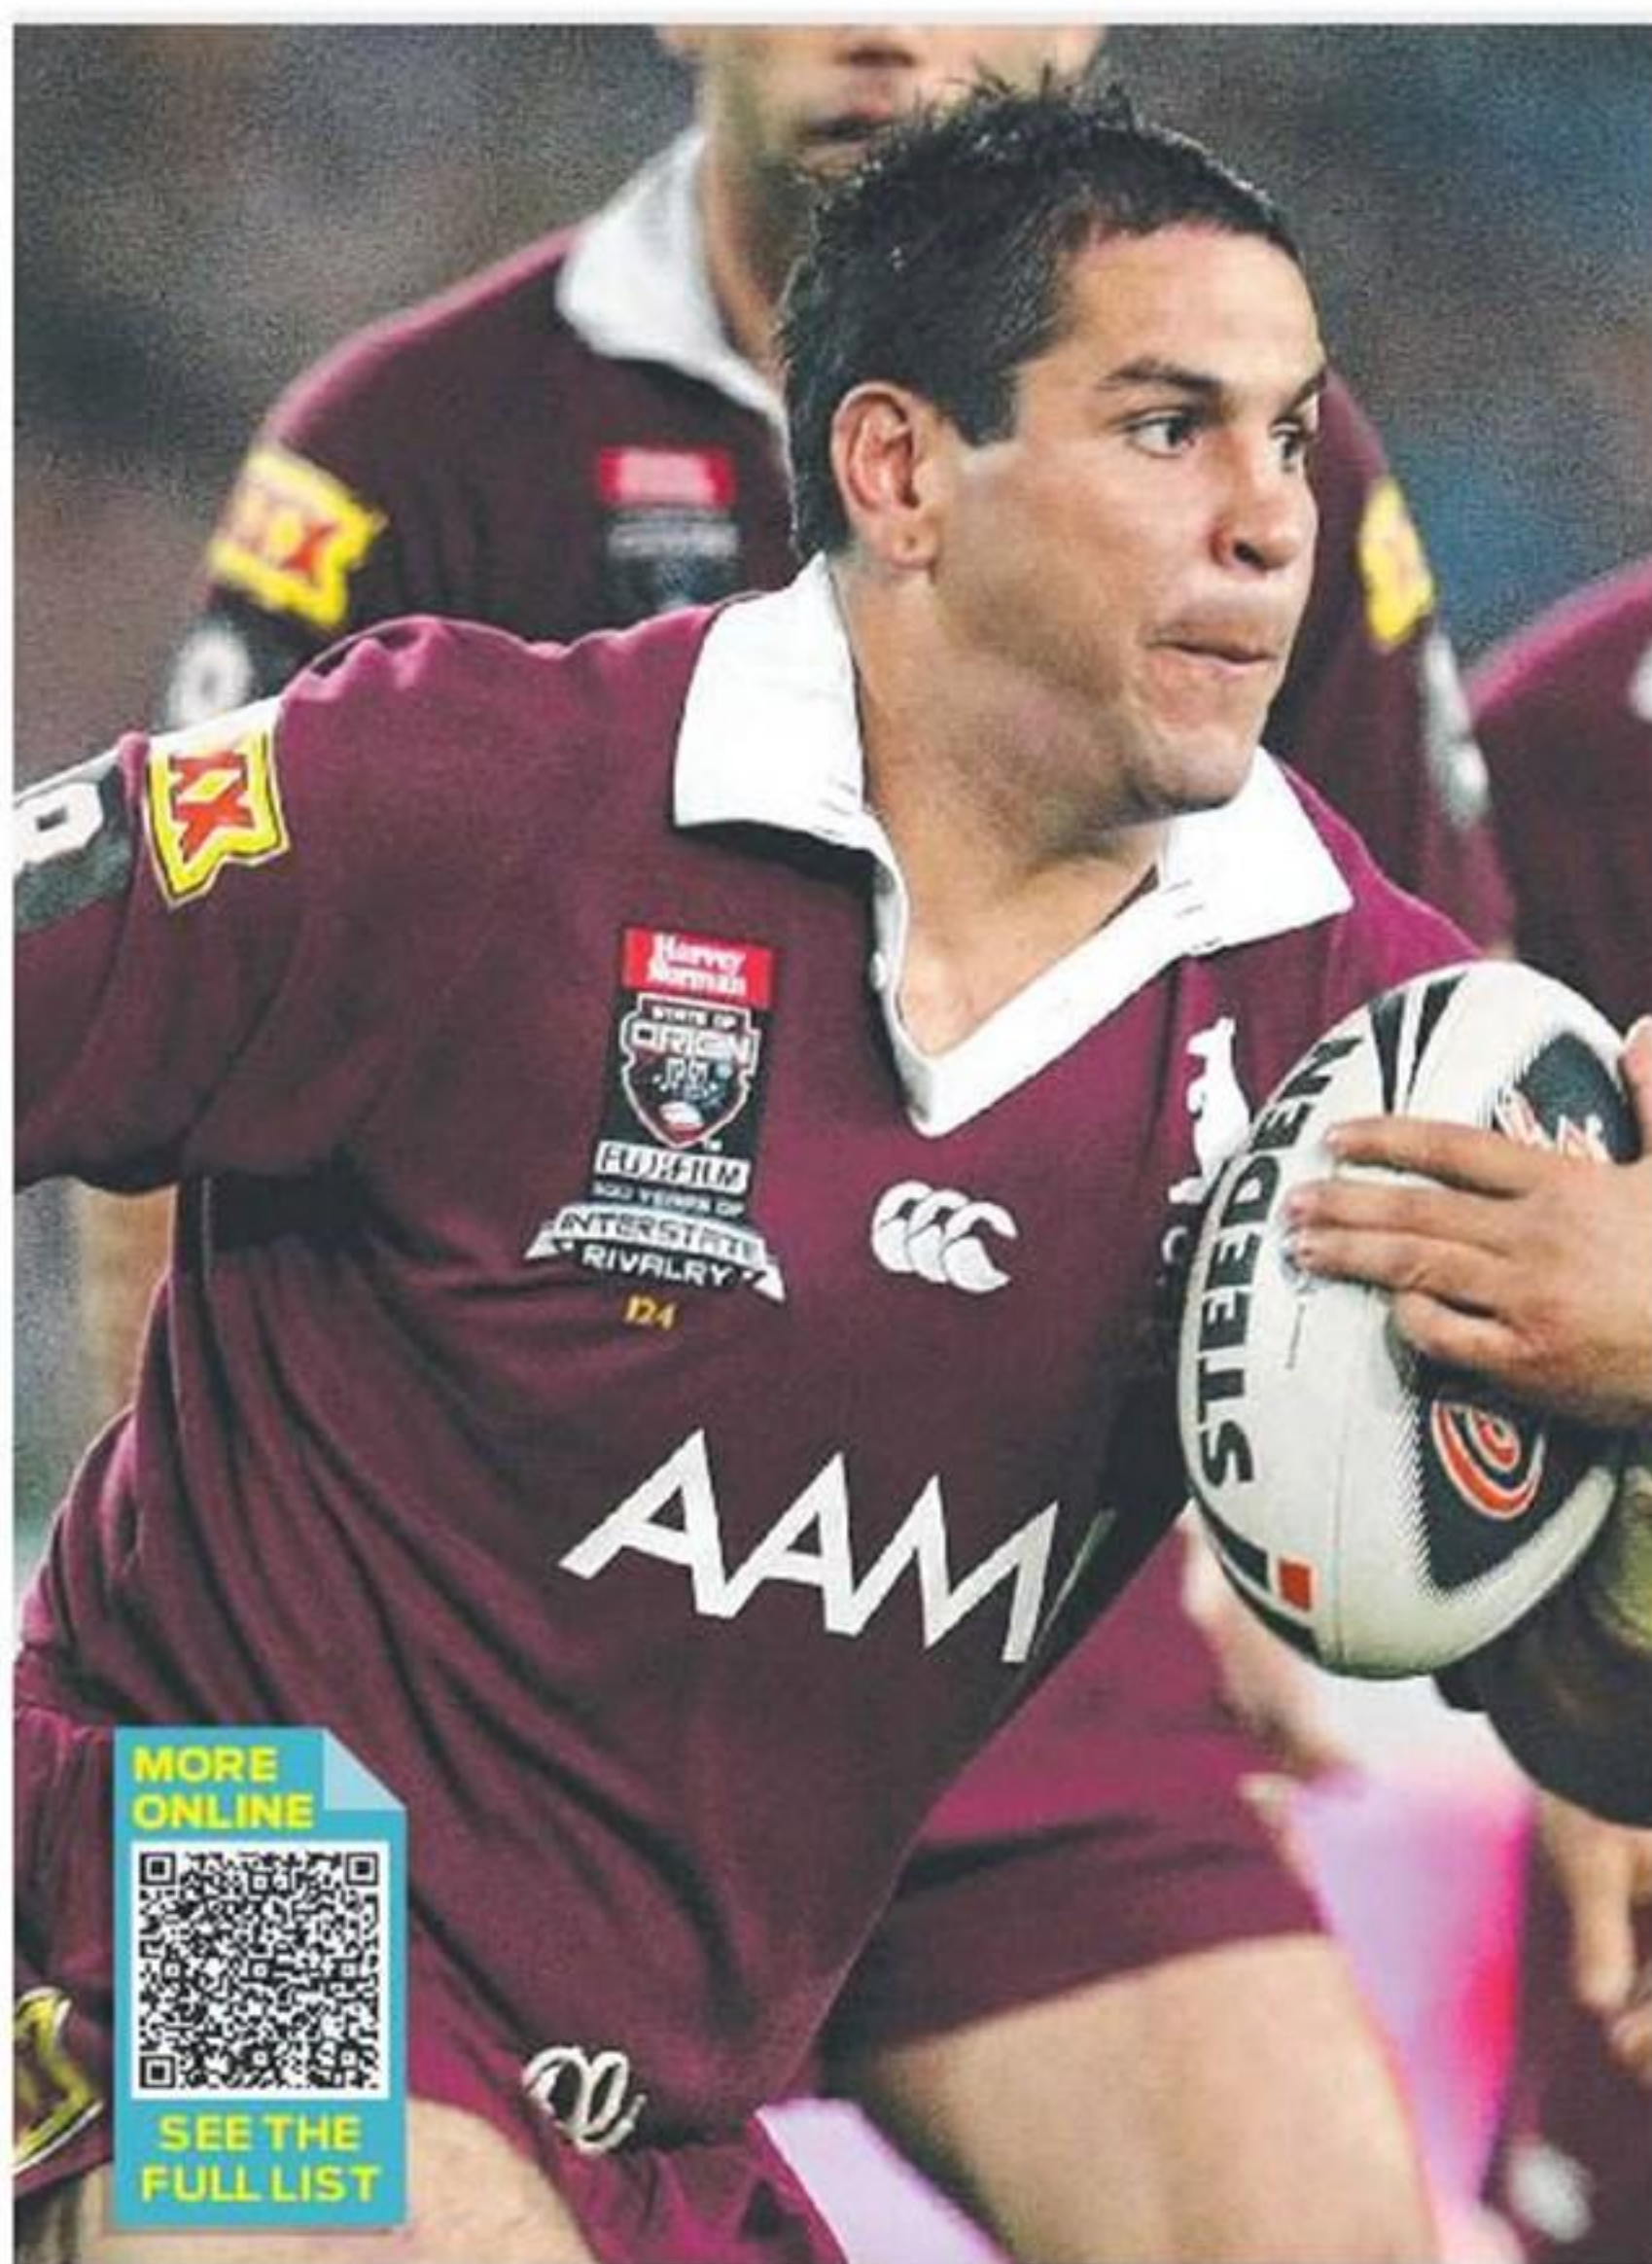

Australian households and businesses have been bolting on rooftop solar in record levels as they seek relief from two consecutive years of price increases of more than 20 per cent, an influx that is much welcomed by renewable energy advocates and the federal Labor government which has vowed to rapidly accelerate zero emission energy generation.

But the rush of renewable energy from households means wholesale electricity pricing – the cost of generating power – can often be in negative territory for many days – causing significant pain for retailers that have baseload generators.

These generators can often recoup much of their losses from generating throughout the day when the sun sets and wholesale prices spike, though a rise of batteries and an expected increase in generation types such as offshore wind is expected to dampen financial returns in the evening peak.

With the financial burden increasing, a spate of retailers have urged the AER to factor in the toll of increases in solar into their considerations when determining the default market offer from July 2024 during private industry consultations, sources have told The Australian.

"The AER held a conference call and some retailers raised the pain they are experiencing from rooftop solar. Retailers have to pay feed-in tariffs to customers who have solar and they pay them for exporting to the grid that is experiencing negative pricing so they are getting stung on both sides," said one executive on the recent AER teleconference.

TOP TEAM: The late Origin icon Carl Webb has been named as one of the greatest Clydesdales players during the club's Queensland Cup 1996-2006 stint.

Toowoomba's greatest ever side in the Qld Cup

Jason Gibbs

The Toowoomba Clydesdales were a force to be reckoned with in the Queensland Cup.

Playing in the inaugural season (1996), the galloping Clydesdales secured the double – winning the minor premiership before going on to beat Redcliffe Dolphins 8-6 in the grand final.

Between 1996 and 2006 the Clydesdales won three minor premierships, two premierships and featured in multiple semi-finals.

Ahead of the 1999 season the Clydesdales signed a feeder club deal with the Brisbane Broncos that bought some of the club's most promising young stars to the Garden City.

The move paid instant dividends with the Clydesdales improving from 15th place in 1998 to fourth in 1999.

In 2015 Queensland Rugby League named its Queensland Cup 20th Year Anniversary team which featured Clydesdales superstar Nick Parfitt.

Countless other QRL and NRL stars have also worn the sky blue Clydesdales jersey.

Focusing on the 1996 to 2006 era, we've named our greatest Toowoomba Clydesdales team, which includes Carl Webb.

Drinking leads to big fine

Night in watch house

Peter Hardwick

Having too many New Year drinks with his partner left a 44-year-old Toowoomba man with a night in the watch house to sleep it off and a sizeable fine in the morning.

Brian Keith Popp was currently subject to a court order prohibiting him from being over the limit when in the company of his partner, the Toowoomba Magistrates Court was told.

However, police were called to the Southern Hotel about 3.45pm, Tuesday, January 2, on the report of a couple drinking and arguing in the pokie room, police prosecutor Kinsley Weir told the court.

By the time police arrived at the pub, the couple had gone but officers later caught up with them at the woman's home where Popp was seen drinking what appeared to be a cider drink, she said.

Breath tested, Popp returned a breath/alcohol reading of 0.2, well above the permitted limit, Senior Constable Weir said.

Under arrest, the 44-year-old was being led to the police vehicle when he shut the gate behind him in front of the officers and ran but after about 50m thought better of it and surrendered to police, the court heard.

Appearing via video link from the watch house, Popp pleaded guilty to breaching a court order and obstructing police.

Duty solicitor Nathan Bouchier, of Bouchier Khan Lawyers, told the court Popp was on a disability support pension due to a back injury but worked up to 10 hours a week as a forklift operator as was permitted.

His client accepted he had an alcohol problem and was attending Alcoholics Anonymous and Lives Lived Well but his back pain had returned and with other stresses he "fell off the wagon" on this occasion, he said.

Magistrate Kay Ryan said this time of year was always difficult for some people when support agencies had closed down for the holiday break.

However, noting he was doing well on other court orders and taking into account he had spent a night in custody, Ms Ryan fined Popp $750.

Huge seals are fussy eaters

As one of the top predators roaming Antarctica, the sizeable southern elephant seal has its fair selection of the menu. But it turns out they don't just want to eat anything and everything.

According to new research led by UNSW Sydney, male southern elephant seals have their own favourite foods, and they like to stick with them. In other words, they're very fussy eaters. "They could have the pick of the buffet and yet each male southern elephant seal eats a lot of the same food, which is just a fraction of what's on offer," says lead author Andrea Cormack.

Four-day school week verdict

Toby Crockford, Matty Holdsworth

Queensland parents are opposed to the idea of a condensed four-day school week, with almost 90 per cent voting against it in an exclusive new poll.

The Department of Education released guidelines in November outlining how state schools can switch to a shortened timetable if they wish. These will take effect from Term 1 this year.

The immediate reaction from readers was one of scepticism, but some were open to the idea.

The new sentiment survey found nearly 90 per cent of the 6800 respondents do not agree with the four-day school week – 88 per cent disagreed, 12 per cent were open to it.

Independent school Wisdom College – in Calamvale in Brisbane's south and home to 450 students from Prep to Year 12 – implemented a new flexible schedule in Term 4, 2023.

Principal Damien Barry was surprised by how one-sided the exclusive sentiment survey results were, but also understood parents' concerns.

"If something like this is not communicated well, parents will have a negative view," he said. "They will be asking who is monitoring their kids on the day they're not at school? Who is checking they're not falling behind? Are they still covering key aspects of the curriculum?"

"But we believe our timetable gives our kids greater flexibility and helps to develop their independent learning skills for the future."

Education Minister Di Farmer said the update to the department's 'Making changes to school hours' policy did not give schools a green light to implement a four-day week.

"Queensland state schools will continue to operate for five days a week," she said.

"The (policy) updates were to make sure that any school proposing to make a change to school hours undertakes significant consultation..."

NEW INSTALLATIONS: Queensland's top solar suburbs have been mapped: Photo: Supplied

Qld's top solar suburbs

Installations in Toowoomba top 800 as costs rise

Jami Roberts

Thousands of Queenslanders are turning their skyrocketing power bills into profits, with solar uptake spiking across the state.

Now the suburbs with the most solar installations in 2023 can be revealed.

Since January 2023, 48,822 Queenslanders have installed solar with other top areas including Toowoomba with 827 installations, Mackay with 865 and the 4207 postcode which includes Beenleigh and Yarrabilba with a total of 772.

Bundaberg saw the highest uptake of solar installations in 2023 with a whopping 1085 residents turning to one of Queensland's best renewable energy sources.

The Sunshine Coast and Hervey Bay also made the top five suburbs/regions in Australia, as residents join the 190,000 other homeowners around the country to take up solar in 2023.

Sunshine Coast homeowner Shane Simpson, 56, made the switch to solar three years ago and turned his quarterly $300 electricity bill into instant profit.

"The first year we had solar the feed-in tariff was magnificent, we were getting about 12 to 15 cents a kilowatt ... around $1800 roughly a quarter as our savings plus our credit," Mr Simpson said.

The feed in tariff (FIT) is what electricity companies pay solar owners for the energy they generate and feed back into the grid.

"These days the tariff isn't as good so we're only getting about four cents a kilowatt ...

but it's definitely beneficial," Mr Simpson said.

The Australian Energy Regulator said electricity prices rose by as much as 28 per cent from June 2022 to June 2023.

Mr Simpson's large 20 kilowatt solar system has helped him eliminate his electricity bill – which would now be around $550 a quarter – while also recouping $200 in his back pocket for an overall saving of approximately $700 a quarter.

The average size of a first time installation is around nine kilowatts which can cost anywhere from $8000 to $10000.

But government incentives are helping to cut down upfront costs.

The Small-scale Renewable Energy Scheme (SRES) incen-tivises household solar panel and hot water systems by allocating Small-scale Technology Certificates (STCs) to a system.

An STC is equal to one megawatt of renewable energy (one million watts) and is allocated depending on postcode rating zones, system size and the expected output of power from your system until 2030 when the subsidy ends.

STCs can then be sold for a maximum of $40, depending on the market prices, to regain the upfront costs of solar installation.

Using the government's small generation unit STC calculator, a 10kW system in Bundaberg installed in December 2023 would have 110 STCs allocated which would equal a saving of nearly $4000 using the December fifths STC price of $36.25 according to greenbank environmental.

Solar Analytics CEO Stefan Jarnason said the price for installations should stay fairly static as the cost of solar panels decrease steadily with subsidies.

"The price of STCs drops by five per cent every year until 2030 when it disappears," Mr Jarnason said.

"So the subsidy is going down every year but the price of solar is going down by five per cent every year as well, so prices have been fairly static for out of pocket prices for the consumer for the last five years."

"Even in 2030 to 2032 when subsidies disappear completely it will still be about the same price as today which is a bit under one dollar a watt," he said.

Developer slams council

Subdivision rejection is 'pathetic'

Tom Gillespie

A prominent Gold Coast developer has slammed the Toowoomba Regional Council's refusal of his $105m subdivision in a fast-growing suburb, calling the move "pathetic".

Homecorp Constructions' Ron Bakir says he will appeal the council's decision at the December 20 special meeting, where councillors voted 9-2 to knock back the remaining 171 lots of Essence Estate in Cotswold Hills.

The motion went against the council's own planning department, which had recommended approval despite opposition from hundreds of residents in the surrounding area.

Key concerns from locals were based on the lack of vegetative buffer zones between Essence and existing rural-residential homes, perceived flooding impacts, the loss of amenity for current locals, traffic increases and the fact about quarter of the lots proposed were 450sqm.

Mr Bakir said he would

APPEAL PLANNED: Ron Bakir, CEO of Homecorp, has criticised a council decision to reject a subdivision at Cotswold Hills. Photo: Regi Varghese lodge an appeal, accusing the council of chasing votes.

"It's pretty disgraceful, in my view," he said.

"We talk about housing shortages and adding value to people's lives, and the council completely disregarded that approach."

"We'll definitely be appealing it, and the council should be thinking about how to develop more housing rather than trying to get votes.

"The councillors do not even understand the detail, they understand votes as opposed to housing."

"The application before council was for 170 lots; it's about $105m we were ready to invest — that's what the council has rejected, it's pathetic."

Mr Bakir acknowledged he could've avoided the ordeal had he made all the lots a minimum of 500 sqm, which he said would not have resulted in a "material" reduction in total allotments.

Doing so would have made the application "code-assessable" and not required it to go to a special meeting.

But Mr Bakir noted the council's planners supported the move and were happy with Homecorp's responses to issues like traffic, buffer zones, stormwater and other planning matters.

"It would make sense if they rejected the application because we had not adhered to the officers' requests, (but) we had navigated the process — we can't get any more guidance than what the officers gave us," he said.

"If council officers were not supportive of the application, we would've submitted a different application."

"We could have made them 500 sqm, but we're talking about 26 per cent of the application being under (that size)."

"It's a very acceptable outcome, we're talking about 50 sqm — it makes zero difference to the people living on those lots."

The move to appeal was foreshadowed by Kerry Shine, who was one of just two councillors to vote against the decision to reject the project.

"What we're being asked to give effect to is very similar on an issue that's already been determined by the court," he said at the meeting.

"It would be an exercise of a triumph of hope over experience to think that the court on this occasion will arrive at a different decision."

Councillor Megan O'Hara Sullivan said the TRC had not received an appeal from Homecorp.

Tourists trapped at zoo

Phillippa Butt and Gemma Scerri

Tourists were left trapped in an orang-utan viewing area at the Melbourne Zoo after an emergency alert caused the zoo to think a baboon had escaped.

A zoo patron who had travelled to Melbourne from Darwin said it wasn't the day they were expecting when they went to the zoo.

The family of four were looking at the animals when they noticed a worker rushing to tourists.

"There was a lady going around saying 'can you all get in the enclosure, there's a baboon on the loose'," the Darwin mum said.

Dozens of people were trapped in the orang-utan viewing area for about 10 to 15 minutes while the zoo tracked down the alleged monkey.

"How funny," the Darwin mum said, noting she didn't mind the disruption to her day.

"It was only 15 minutes — I'd rather not get attacked by a baboon! It was a fun adventure."

The zoo's lockdown lifted after about 10 minutes.

"Melbourne Zoo went into lockdown for less than 10 minutes this arvo when an Emergency Alert was mistakenly activated," the zoo said in a statement.

Opinion OURS & YOURS

LOOKING back

We look back at front pages of The Chronicle published on this date in years gone by.

Letters & Texts

Wellcamp centre

On 5th December a homeless man pitched a tent in the park just opposite my house.

At the time, I was sympathetic to his situation, but concern for my own safety prevented me from approaching him. Since then, I have become increasingly aware that the man has some serious problems.

However, my attempts to obtain assistance have fallen on deaf ears.

The Toowoomba Regional Council officers have told me they can't move the man on, and the police have as yet taken no action, despite his threatening behaviour towards park users and their dogs.

I realise that the Christmas and New Year holidays cause disruption to services, but the man has been camping in the park for four weeks, without any toilet or washing facilities.

The weather has been extreme, with both heat and heavy rain.

Surely we can use the now-defunct quarantine centre at Wellcamp as short-term accommodation for the unfortunate people who are so in need of help.

HELEN HOLMES, Toowoomba

Candidate's comments

David King has announced his candidacy to be elected as a councillor in the TRC.

He tells us that there are people earning $80k (before or after tax?) and are then paying $70k in rates without claiming it as a business expense. Really?

If David King really wanted to assist these people he should be referring them to Lifeline whereby they could receive some vital personal or business financial advice which may include that the property or properties attracting these rates be sold. No one with any sense would be in this type of financial position, and if they are then it would be clearly a very small number within the TRC area.

I believe that the TRC already works closely with those struggling to pay their rates so what is David King actually proposing?

JOHN FRIEND, Toowoomba

TV show canned

I have been a long-time viewer of Millionaire Hotseat, but now apparently it won't be back on our screens this year.

There are two elements of the show that irritate me – the excessive banter and the innuendo from Eddie in trying to influence contestants.

A little banter is fine, but they might have been better served in adding a few extra questions to fill the time, and I have always believed in fairness to all contestants without favour.

However, Eddie obviously has a directive to keep the big money in play by dropping hints, particularly for the early questions. Occasionally it goes badly wrong when he totally confuses the contestant.

Has it ever occurred to the producers of the show that what I find irritating also irritates many other viewers, therefore causing them to switch to The Chase?

This is usually why a show gets the axe – a drop in viewer numbers. It's disappointing to see the demise of such a great quiz show.

WES HORN, Toowoomba

SMS to editor

Darryl Williams I couldn't agree more with you. TRC is revenue raising by fining people who look after TRC footpaths at no charge to ratepayers. The day I get fined for parking my car on the grass in front of my house is the day I stop mowing it.

Happy New Year Toowoomba. What a breath of fresh air is Rosanna Natoli the stand in weather lady on Chanel Seven Local News. Her smiling face and easy to understand delivery of weather, the magnificent Sunrise and Sunset photos that viewers send to her.

MC (30/12) what exactly was inappropriate by giving workers a beer to thank them for the hours and hours they put in to ensure families weren't left without power over Christmas? And I can assure you those beers were very well received!

Ellen Smith, Burnside

I see the Flat Earth Society is thriving in Toowoomba.

Dave, Twmba

When will the people of Aust demand the govt comes out and enforces the use of legal tender, the Aust Dollar. If we don't have access to our cash, everything will cost more and will be controlled by banks and everything below the cost of $1 will disappear or double in cost, there will be no ability to save a few cents, no more good deals at flea markets, transactions through phones (again banks, and fees). Politicians don't need cash, they use our money on Eft, are fed in Parliament House, are driven around in our cars and travel at our expense. The Reserve Bank governor is even urging the loss of cash use when it's not her function to do so. Use cash, or lose it.

Db, Twb

Read with interest of all the new projects listed for Toowoomba but some how nothing a new water supply. All new projects and more residents surely must need extra water. Please TRC, try to think of the residents who helped with the dams that are there.

CV, Toowoomba

Not impressed with the state of the Garden of Remembrance over Christmas. Looks like it had not been mowed or tidied up around the plaques for a few weeks.

Left's attack a big blow to our social cohesion

James Morrow

It feels like the annual fight over Australia Day comes around earlier and earlier every year. Perhaps it's because the Bureau of Meteorology failed to deliver on its promise of a long, hot summer to keep us otherwise distracted.

Or maybe it's because after the Voice, everyone's nerves are a bit on edge over the subject. But either way, the battle is on – again.

A few days ago we learned that 81 councils across the country had decided to ditch their Australia Day citizenship ceremonies out of respect for Aboriginal sensibilities, despite the country voting overwhelmingly against precisely this sort of racialised grandstanding at the referendum.

Now, of course this is bad.

It is yet another example of local government doing the opposite of what local voters want and thinking their remit goes beyond the honourable if dull trinity of rates, roads and rubbish.

The trend against Australia Day citizenship ceremonies is also precisely what Prime Minister Anthony Albanese hoped would develop when he opened the door to councils freelancing date changes when he modified the rules around these things back in December 2022.

And it is another blow against Australia's social cohesion, which is already fraying badly.

Our formerly easygoing, reasonably high trust society is, by any measure, doing poorly.

Whether it is something sinister like ethnic mobs intimidating Jews and forcing changes to government policy on Israel or more subtle developments like electronic gates at supermarkets (message: we think you're all thieves) there is a growing sense that we are no longer all in this together. The most recent Scanlon Social Cohesion Report put numbers behind this: Just 48 per cent of us now feel a strong sense of belonging and only 33 per cent feel a strong pride in the Australian way of life.

No wonder progressives – despite the referendum loss – think they are pushing on an open door in their attempt to remake Australia and crack our common foundations.

So, what are conservatives and non-political Australians who just want to feel a part of, and pride in, their nation supposed to do?

The first thing, as always, is to recognise that there is a problem.

Then, stop shying away from the solutions. That the so-called progressive side of politics has wanted to hollow out the meaning of modern Australia for its own cynical purposes is well documented.

For the left, post-First Fleet Australia was an illegitimate and genocidal monstrosity that only began to redeem itself with the official adoption of multiculturalism.

Our British inheritance is looked upon as something tacky and a bit shameful, like a slightly embarrassing handed-down collection of commemorative plates no one quite knows what to do with. At the same time the story of us as a prison colony turned prosperous democracy is a triumph that does not fit the narrative.

Yet the right, too, has to shoulder some of the blame.

In office for nine years, the Coalition did nothing serious to reform Julia Gillard's disastrous Australian Curriculum.

Many in the Coalition have also shied away from these discussions for fear of being seen as "nativist" or have been seduced by Big Australia business lobbies that see population growth in solely economic terms.

Beyond lip service to "a fair go" and "mateship", the collective Australian ideal has, over time, started to ring a bit hollow. Particularly for young Australians who feel comprehensively duded by the housing market and whose ire is being stoked by a weird coalition of property developers, activists and think-tank economists. The result is that the citizenship that may or may not be conferred to migrants on Australia Day is less about joining a family with a proud (if, yes, imperfect) story to tell and more about locking in one's status to vote and stay and claim Medicare. And when, even with that citizenship, new Australians are told to preserve the old ways, not only does it raise the question "what's the point?" but it can get downright dangerous.

Think about how, Scott Morrison's admirable and tough stance on China was blamed for the Liberals losing Australian voters of Chinese extraction in key seats at the 2022 election. This is not to say that ethnic constituencies are acting as fifth columns but it is to note that they are lacking any sort of meaningful idea around what it is to be Australian.

Let's hear it for the garbos next Christmas

Greg Johnson

I am a "Baby Boomer," having been born between 1946 and 1964, and I'd like to say I was in the latter part of that range, but alas I cannot lie.

We are said to be the wealthiest, most active and have the most disposable income for food, apparel and retirement programs. On reflection, perhaps I am not a baby boomer!

In our 60-78 years on the planet we have witnessed incredible things, particularly in technology. Who would have thought we could land a "person" on the moon or be swamped by political correctness, if you see the connection?

Sadly, we've lost a lot of gentle things and fun things as our federal and state/territory governments moved to make life more miserable.

Cracker night was a ripper, until one jurisdiction after the other banned it because of poor behaviour by a handful of spoilers, and the other 20 million of us paid the price.

How quaint it was to see men "dip their lids," to women.

Those gentle days when we left doors open and car keys safely in the ignition.

When bread and vegetables and, especially, milk were delivered to our doors by independent vendors, friends,

When we gathered in outdoor theatres to watch the latest "picture" and bolted down the street to the indoor theatre when the rain came.

When cubs, scouts, girl guides and marching girls came knocking at your door raising money for "bob a job" and charity fundraisers.

When the tooth fairy and Santa Claus were real people.

They were the days, days long gone; but wait, I've found a gentle relic which still exists.

Do you remember the days when "garbage men" collected bins twice-weekly and "night soil men" collected your "waste" weekly?

At Christmas we used to leave a "tallie" on our garbage bin as a thank you to those good men who had to haul 20-gallon bins to their truck and then heave the blessed thing to empty the contents.

The night soil men, sorry, got nothing!

Days before Christmas Mrs J and I were out on our, almost, daily walk when we noticed a big bin with a six-pack of "Mountain Goat Beer" cans atop.

Even though councils don't own trucks anymore and pay contractors to collect our garbage in fancy big trucks, it seems the ancient practice of thanking your garbo still exists.

On Boxing Day, we experimented by leaving a six-pack of beer on each of our garbage and recycling bins and, guess what, by daybreak they'd gone.

Happy New Year to all The Chronicle readers and families. May 2024 be your best and may your resolution be to say thank you to the garbos next Christmas.

SHARPE RETURNS FIRE

Hard-bitten Napoleonic Wars veteran Richard Sharpe is one of historical fiction king BERNARD CORNWELL's most popular characters. Sharpe, played on TV by Sean Bean, returns for a gripping new adventure behind enemy lines in Sharpe's Command.

French-occupied Spain, 1812: Richard Sharpe was thinking about breakfast when he was hit.

The choice was between salt pork or salt beef, neither with any bread and both tough as boiled boot-leather. He was about to choose the pork when the shot sounded, but so far away that he thought it unimportant. He dismissed it as a hunter in the distant hills, and almost immediately the hunter's shot hit him.

It struck his upper left thigh, glanced harmlessly on to the metal scabbard of his heavy cavalry sword and dropped to the ground. He stumbled from the impact, cursed and rubbed his thigh.

Sergeant Harper stooped to recover the ball. "Bloody fine shot, sir," he said.

"Bloody stupid shot," Sharpe retorted. He was gazing northeast and could just see a puff of smoke drifting in the almost still air. The smoke came from the rocky crest of a hill that had to be half a mile away.

He knew he was lucky, indeed his men called him "Lucky Sharpe", but still shooting a musket at a target a half mile away was stupid. The ball had been slowed by the air until it was almost spent and lacked the power to pierce even the cloth of his overalls. It had smarted and would leave a bruise, but that was a lot better than a lump of lead deep in his muscles.

"Bloody Crapaud," he said angrily. "I'll have some pork". "Wasn't a Frenchman," Harper said. He tossed the musket ball to Sharpe, who caught it one-handed. "That's one of ours".

The ball was still warm. It was smaller than a rifle bullet, but larger than the ball fired by a French musket. The difference in sizes was minute, but Sharpe had been a soldier in the British Army for 19 years.

He had enlisted in the 33rd Regiment when he was 16 and since then he had fought in Flanders, India, Portugal and now Spain. He had been promoted to sergeant in 1799 and four years later had been commissioned as an officer. Now, in the spring of 1812 he was a major and wore the green jacket of a rifleman. Nineteen years of battle and every one of them as an infantryman, Sharpe knew that Harper was right. The spent musket ball, fired at such a ridiculous range, was British.

"Here comes Cupid," Harper said in warning.

"Don't call him that," Sharpe said irritably.

"Every one else does," Harper responded; "you do!"

"Sir! Sir!" Lieutenant Love stumbled in his hurry to reach Sharpe. "Are you hurt, sir? Is it serious?"

"It's nothing, Lieutenant," Sharpe said dismissively. "A spent round".

"So the French are barring the road," Lieutenant Love said, gazing at the skyline, "that is grievous news, sir".

"It's not the bloody Crapauds," Sharpe said, "that was fired by a partida".

He used the Spanish word for the guerrilla fighters who dogged the French all across Spain. He tossed the musket ball away and turned back to the trees where his men had spent the night. "Dan! See anything up there?"

Daniel Hagman gazed at the distant crest where the puff of smoke had thinned, then suddenly a dozen eruptions of smoke showed along the rocky skyline. The volley's ragged sound arrived an instant later. "They don't like us, Mister Sharpe," Hagman said, amused.

"Oh my Lord almighty!" Lieutenant Love had dived behind the nearest tree trunk. "Partidas? Really?"

"Really," Sharpe said flatly, then looked back to Hagman. "Say hello back to them, Dan."

"A pleasure," Hagman said. He lay on his back, propped his rifle barrel between his feet and sighted along the barrel. "Want the bugger dead, Mister Sharpe?"

"I want them scared."

"Scared it is," Hagman said and pulled the trigger. The rifle's sound was crisp and, unlike a musket, its bullet would be lethal at a half-mile.

"I reckon he needs new britches, Mister Sharpe," Hagman said. "But aren't the partidas on our side?"

Lieutenant Love had crept out from his sheltering tree.

"They are, Lieutenant, but those buggers don't know which side we're on."

Lieutenant Love peered anxiously at the distant skyline. "They suspect we may be French?" Love sounded disbelieving. "That's what the buggers think, Lieutenant."

"Then we're in a pickle, sir," Love said. "There's no cover between us and that hilltop!"

How can we approach without being slaughtered? Oh, if only I had a nine-pounder!"

"You don't," Sharpe said with a deal more asperity than he had intended, but in truth Lt Courtney de Vere Love of the Royal Artillery was wearing Sharpe's patience thin, a patience already scraped by this journey deep into enemy-held Spain.

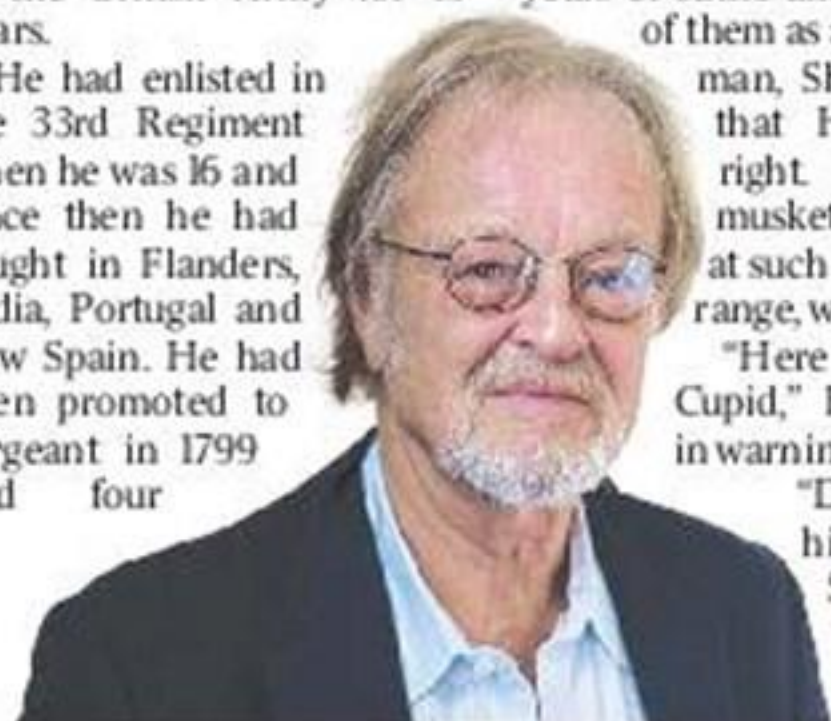

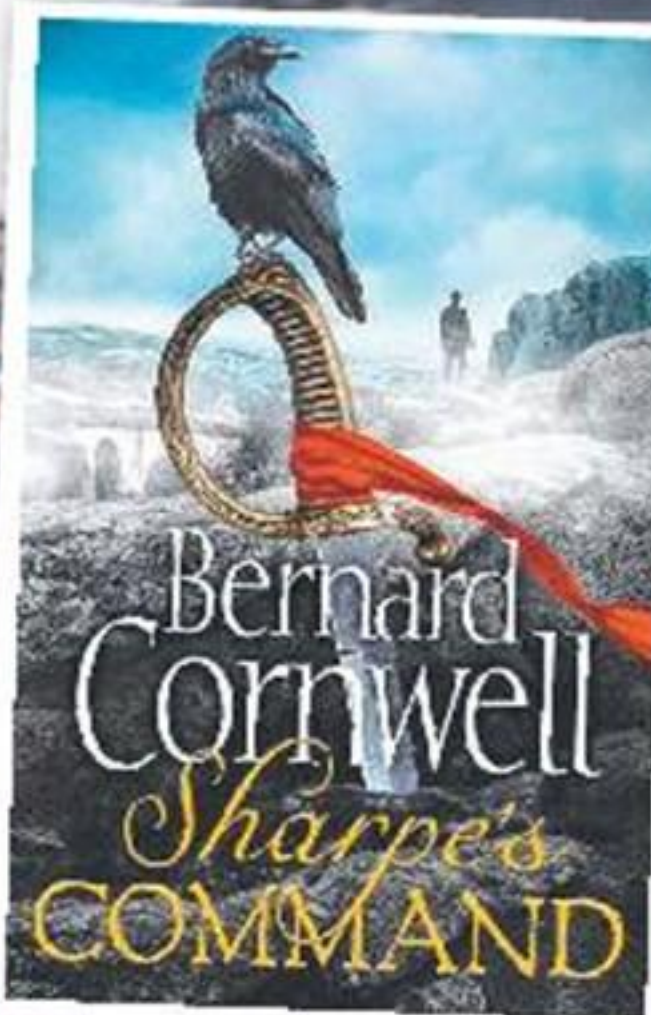

Another fusillade sounded.

"I have a spare white shirt, sir," Love said eagerly. "Allow me to fix it to my sabre's tip and it will serve as a flag of truce."

"Lieutenant,"

Sharpe forced himself to sound patient. "If you walk out there waving a white flag they'll take it as a sign of weakness, wait for you to get in range and then use you for target practice."

This is an edited extract from Sharpe's Command, by Bernard Cornwell. It is available now, published by HarperCollins.

Author and 'old soul'
Nita Prose is glad grannies are now hip.
Picture: Tony Hanyk

Years ahead of the cool granny trend

WHEN BAKING BECAME BAD-ASS AND CROCHETING COOL, AUTHOR NITA PROSE REALISED SHE WAS NOT ALONE.

Some people become grandmas later in life; others are born grandmas. I was born a grandma – not literally, of course, since that's biologically impossible.

But from a very young age, I adopted the ways of older women. I've always had an appreciation for arts and crafts, an abiding love for homemade cookies, soups, and jam, and a penchant for gardening and reading (though never at the same time).

By the time I was five, I was called an "old soul" with alarming regularity. I considered this the highest of compliments ... until I realised later in life that this was the polite way of saying I was a bit out of step, both with my peers and with time in general. Unlike the sporty, Walkman-wearing kids of my generation, my head was always in a book. In fact, I was reading indoors so much, it's a wonder I didn't contract rickets from a lack of sunshine. But beyond reading, I also loved tea and doilies, sewing and embroidery, antiques and thrift stores. Murder She Wrote and The Golden Girls.

Let me just say that interests such as these didn't garner a kid much street cred in the 80s.

Now, imagine me as an adult – fully grown and over the age of 50. Am I any less of a grandma? Far from it.

Now, imagine my delight when during the pandemic, the "grandma era" came into fashion. Suddenly, millennials and gen Zers (ergo, really young people) were adopting the ways of women two or three times their age. Suddenly, it was hip to be a homebody.

Baking bread was bad-ass, and crocheting was cool. To my utter shock, for the first time in my life I was a trendsetter ahead of my time instead of behind it. Lo and behold, my collection of vintage porcelain teacups prompted interest rather than eye rolls and, just like that, the hand-stitched lone-star quilt my mother made me decades ago wasn't an old-fashioned relic but a valuable work of folk art.

At the same time as the grandma trend was taking hold, my debut novel, The Maid, was being published around the world. I received countless notes from readers who identified both with Molly, the hotel maid and "old soul" who's the star of the story, as well as with her dearly departed grandmother.

In The Maid, Molly is lost without her gran's guidance, struggling to navigate the baffling complexities of the social world. And yet, though Gran is dead when the novel opens, Molly hears her voice.

Her grandmother's traditional sayings repeat in a mobius loop in Molly's mind:

What doesn't kill you makes you stronger.

Good things come to those who wait.

Everything will be okay in the end. If it's not okay, it's not the end.

Do any of these sayings sound familiar? Perhaps, like me, you had wise, old women repeating them to you, too.

Here's the thing about grandmothers: we all need one. As women all over the world examine their lives, their yearning for the grandma era intensifies – and it goes far deeper than just taking up the hobbies and habits of grannies. Women crave a wise and strong matriarch who reminds us that when the stress of modern living is too much to bear, we need to take things slowly and return to our roots.

As grandmothers everywhere know, there's restorative magic in the creature comforts of food and family, hearth and home.

In creating Gran in The Maid, I wasn't only conjuring my inner grandma but offering readers an idealised one – the kind who greets you with a cup of tea after a long, hard day; who listens patiently and gives sage advice; and who wraps unconditional love around you like a warm blanket.

If, like me, you've always been considered an "old soul", I suspect you're thrilled the grandma era is back. But let's be clear: it never really left. Also, it will never really die. The voices of the wise, old women who came before us echo through time even as they transcend it.

It's exactly like Grandma always said: everything old is new again.

THE BINGE GUIDE

Best is yet to come

Siobhan Duck flags seven new shows that will keep you glued to the small screen in 2024

The Regime (Binge) This sweeping miniseries sees Kate Winslet (pictured) play a despot trying to hold on to the last vestiges of her power in a fictional European country. Hugh Grant co-stars as the opposition leader, whose jailing triggers unrest and the arrival of the US secretary of state (Martha Plimpton). Premieres February 26.

Swift Street (SBS and SBS On Demand) This series follows street-smart Elsie (Tanzyn Crawford), who discovers that her old-school hustler father, Robert (Cliff Curtis), is being hunted down by a merciless crime boss over a bad debt. When the 21-year-old decides to help him, it sparks the beginnings of a reconciliation – and their dubious reign as partners in crime. Coming in 2024.

The Twelve (Binge) Sam Neill returns as Brett Colby, a shrewd barrister who travels to rural Western Australia with his co-counsel, Meredith Nelson-Moore (Frances O'Connor), to take on a high-profile murder case. Like the first season, this courtroom drama takes viewers inside the jury room, where we learn about the biases of those sitting in judgement. Coming in 2024.

Top Gear Australia (Paramount+) An Aussie version of the popular UK format was first given a test drive back in 2008 on SBS. Can the new hosts Beau Ryan, Jonathan LaPaglia and Blair Joscelyne recapture the energy and chemistry of the original? Coming in 2024.

Return To Paradise (ABC TV and iView) The British-French crime comedy Death In Paradise franchise hits our shores with this spin-off about an Aussie expat in the London police force who returns to her hometown of Dolphin Cove – where she finds herself solving a lot of murders. Coming in 2024.

The Last Anniversary (Binge) Based on the bestseller by Liane Moriarty (Big Little Lies), this thriller stars Teresa Palmer as a single woman who inherits a house on an island filled with secrets – and unwelcoming townsfolk. Coming in 2024.

Dream Home (Seven Network and 7Plus) Dr Chris Brown hosts this new renovation show in which six couples turn their humble homes into showstoppers, room-by-room. Coming in 2024.

STARS

OSCAR CAINER
For free forecasts go to ozfree.cainer.com

Today, as Mars (the power planet) moves into earthy Capricorn, it gears up to create a talent triangle. This formation involves Mars and Jupiter working in harmony, encouraged by the cosmic teacher, Saturn. Together, they paint a picture of a growing confidence in our ability to turn ideas into progress. But we can't sit back and just hope for the best. The more enthusiasm we apply to our work, the better, and the faster the results of our efforts will be seen.

ARIES MAR 21-APR 20

There's no point in me telling you that today is the first day of the rest of your life. You're very familiar with the expression. You know that even though it might feel similar to yesterday (and tomorrow), it's not. Which emphasises the value of today's forecast. The new year is under way and your ruler, Mars, is playing a key role in the exciting cosmic outlook. You have the freedom to transform what you want in your world. Why not choose today to be the day to start turning your life into what you want it to be?

LEO JUL 24-AUG 23

Before you can set out on the high-seas adventure of 2024, you need to get some work done on your boat. For now, you're in a safe harbour getting on with some rather dull jobs. It's easy to think of other things to do (that would be much more fun), but the tasks you need to complete aren't as tedious as you think. Nor are they going to take long to finish. If you look towards the horizon, you'll get a feel for the opportunities ahead. Preparations you're doing now will enable you to sail out and seize them.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 23-DEC 21

The start of 2024 is a bit like one of those complicated jigsaws. You don't seem to have an image of what it will look like once it's complete. In fact, you're not even sure you've got all the pieces. You're managing to fit some parts together, but they won't join up into a cohesive picture. It's frustrating. Yet with power planet Mars moving into earthy Capricorn, you'll find it easier to concentrate. If you stay motivated, you'll soon find a way to put everything together in a way that makes perfect sense.

TAURUS APR 21-MAY 21

Why do we think being stubborn is wrong? I think it's a quality that needs to be appreciated. So many people give up at the first obstacle, or change their minds at the drop of a hat. Thank goodness for Taurus. You're not afraid to stand up for your beliefs. Right now though, it's worth questioning if this could be a time when a compromise would be more effective. A small concession could have positive effects today (and if needed, you can always go back to your original stance).

VIRGO AUG 24-SEP 23

It's all a matter of perspective. Depending on how we feel, and what we want to see, we view the situations we're dealing with very differently. When we're optimistic, we can find silver linings, even in difficult scenarios. But when we're not, it's as if we're wearing dark shades, which give everything a gloomy look. Today, as dynamic Mars enters earthy Capricorn, it brings the energy to fan a glimmer of hope into a realistic aspiration. With just a simple change of attitude, you can take steps to make your future brighter.

CAPRICORN DEC 22-JAN 20

Dynamic Mars enters your sign today, and as 2024 progresses, you'll feel increasingly aware that the sky has your best interests at heart. The cosmic support you're receiving will be reflected by the opportunities coming your way. If you're not yet feeling galvanised into action, you don't have long to wait. Meanwhile, try focusing on the potential available to you today. Even if it doesn't feel like much, it hides a small treasure, and with the right attitude, you can encourage it to grow into something valuable.

GEMINI MAY 22-JUN 22

Questions always pop up at the start of a new year. What should you be doing with your life? What do you need to feel fulfilled and happy? These kinds of ponderings are tricky as they can throw us into a quagmire of self-doubt. Does anyone feel successful all the time? I doubt it. The best strategy to follow is to be confident that whatever you're doing right now, and wherever you're doing it, it's the right thing to be doing. With this attitude any doubts will disappear and you'll be on the path to progress.

LIBRA SEP 24-OCT 23

It's astonishing how we sometimes find ourselves doing the opposite of what we know we should do. We step on the brake (rather than the accelerator). Or we say no to something we ought to say yes to. It's easy, with hindsight, to see we'd have been better off following a different course. Yet looking back with regret is never helpful. If you want to maximise the opportunities 2024 brings your way, you just need to forgive yourself and move on. With a clear conscience, you'll be unstoppable.

AQUARIUS JAN 21-FEB 19

There's no denying the fact that you're moving into the future. The new year stretches ahead of you like a blank canvas of possibilities. I hope you're ready, because there's no going back. If you're regretting a recent choice which left you feeling uncomfortable, as you move deeper into the new year you'll grow more at ease with it. Deep down, you're growing more confident you're on the right track. Today, as Mars moves into your neighbouring sign, even tentative steps forwards will take you further than you think.

CANCER JUN 23-JUL 23

You don't usually struggle to articulate your ideas. So, to find yourself unable to say what's in your heart is making you uneasy. You're worried that if you speak out, you'll cause an upset. You're probably right, yet your instincts are spot on and you're right to think something needs to be discussed. Be as diplomatic as you can be today (but don't be afraid to be bold). You've got the insight and skills to be able to talk about the elephant in the room. Once it's in the open, everyone will be relieved, and able to move on.

SCORPIO OCT 24-NOV 22

How badly do you want what you want? Hmm... Instead of how badly, maybe we should use more positive language. How deeply maybe? What's important, is that you remember you don't need to focus on one thing to the detriment of everything else. The start of 2024 is about aspiring to achieve your deepest desire. You need to be dedicated (even when the road ahead isn't smooth), but stay open-minded enough to be able to adapt your approach. The cosmos helps you find the right balance today.

PISCES FEB 20-MAR 20

We talk about there being no time like the present. But it's hard to pinpoint when the present actually is. It was certainly a different present when the saying originated more than 450 years ago! Maybe you're better off going along with whatever 2024 brings your way, and trust that you'll recognise the time to instigate change when it appears? On second thoughts, don't do that. If you're meant to wait, the cosmos will create distractions, but if there are none of those around today, seize the moment.

Albanese dodges cover-up question

Ellen Ransley,
Jack Quail and
Madeleine Achenza

Prime Minister Anthony Albanese has refused to say whether he believes the Morrison government tried to "cover up" Howard-era documents about Australia's involvement in the Iraq war.

It comes after the revelation on New Year's Day that 78 documents were missing from a now declassified file created in 2003, which reveal then-prime minister John Howard's decision-making process before Australia entered the Iraq war. The documents suggest Mr

Howard had decided to join the US-led invasion before taking the matter to cabinet.

Speaking at a press conference on Wednesday, Mr Albanese (inset) was asked if he was concerned about a "cover up" in regards to the missing documents.

"Well, that's why we have asked Dennis Richardson to do the review," he responded.

"I'm not aware of the circumstances. Obviously, I wasn't a member of the cabinet in 2003."

He went on to add there was "no public servant in Australia who is more respected" than Mr Richardson, the former defence department secretary.

Mr Richardson is due to report the results of his review in the next two weeks.

The Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet had revealed just hours before the 2003 papers were made public that the missing documents were not lost, but had not been handed over by the Morrison government to the archives, "oversights" it said was "likely as a result of Covid-19 disruptions at the time".

The department said the missing documents had been located on December 19 and had been since transferred to the archives.

Mr Albanese said on Wednesday that he expected all the missing documents to be released by the National Archives, save for anything that could compromise national security.

Dozen Aussies escape Japanese plane crash

Jet passengers safe after crash with smaller aircraft that killed five

The Japan Airlines plane on fire on a runway of Tokyo's Haneda Airport. Picture: JUI PRESS / AFP

AFP

Twelve Australians were on board the Japan Airlines passenger jet that collided with a Japan Coast Guard plane at Tokyo's Haneda Airport, according to Emergency Management Minister Murray Watt.

"I know this time of year, Japan is a pretty popular tourist destination for Australians. My understanding is that with the plane crash, there were about 12 Australian passengers on those planes, but none have been injured," Mr Watt told Sky News.

All 379 passengers and crew on board the passenger plane which burst into flames were safely evacuated, Japanese transport minister Tetsuo Saito told reporters.

But five of the six crew members from the smaller plane – bound for central Japan after Monday's huge earthquake – died, he said.

The captain escaped and survived but was injured, he said, cautioning that "we're not at the stage to explain the cause" of the accident.

Television and unverified footage shared on social media showed the Japan Airlines (JAL) airliner moving along the runway before a large eruption of orange flames and black smoke burst from beneath and behind it.

Video posted to social media platform X showed people sliding down an inflatable emergency slide from the side of the passenger plane while flames shot out from the rear of the aircraft.

All 367 passengers plus 12 crew on-board were swiftly taken off the plane before dozens of fire engines with flashing blue lights sprayed the fuselage.

They however failed to put out the flames coming out of windows near the wings and the blaze soon engulfed the entire aircraft.

The plane, reportedly an Airbus 350, had arrived from New Chitose Airport serving Sapporo on the northern island of Hokkaido. Those on board included eight children.

"Smoke began to fill the plane, and I thought, 'this could be really bad', an adult male passenger told reporters.

"An announcement said doors in the back and middle could not be opened. So everyone disembarked from the front," he said.

A female passenger said it had been dark on-board as the fire intensified after landing.

"It was getting hot inside the plane, and I thought, to be honest, I would not survive," she said in comments shown on broadcaster NHK.

The coast guard plane had been preparing to fly to Ishikawa prefecture to deliver supplies after the devastating New Year's Day earthquake which killed at least 48 people.

Prime Minister Fumio Kishida praised the deceased crew members on their way to help the victims of the quake.

"These were employees who had a high sense of mission and responsibility for the affected areas. It's very regrettable," he told reporters at the airport.

"I express my respect and gratitude to their sense of mission," he said.

Haneda suspended domestic flights in the wake of the fire on the runway, according to its website, but most international takeoffs and landings were still operating.

There was also burning debris on the runway at Haneda, one of the world's busiest airports.

A transport ministry official said investigations into the incident were ongoing, including exchanges between the flights and air traffic control.

Japan has not suffered a serious commercial aviation accident in decades.

Its worst ever accident was in 1985, when a JAL jumbo jet flying from Tokyo to Osaka crashed in central Gunma region, killing 520 passengers and crew.

That disaster was one of the world's deadliest plane crashes involving a single flight.

Response to public 'love letter' goes viral

Jordan McCarthy

A public declaration of love has led to a response from an Australian deputy mayor that has gone viral, with his post gathering more than 5000 likes in just a few days.

Gladstone Regional Council Deputy Mayor Kahn Goodluck shared an image of a road sign that had "I love you Hannah" spray-painted across it in neon pink paint while also adding that the lovelorn artist's message had been "plastered all over town" at 20 or more other locations.

Mr Goodluck said he was sure Hannahs everywhere were appreciative of the attention, but the cost of fixing the signs would land on taxpayers.

"I'm sure everyone travelling around BITS over the last few days has noticed that someone out there really, REALLY loves Hannah," he wrote.

"While this very public display of affection has no doubt left many Hannahs feeling the love, it will cost ratepayers money for crews to head out and clean all this up.

"Please don't use public roads, road signs and car parks as your personal love letters."

Mr Goodluck did have alternative ideas for the local Romeo, however.

"You can try: Writing 'I love you Hannah' on a nice hand made card, buying some chocolates or a piece of jewellery or a surprise picnic in the park," he said.

If caught, the artist could face a fine as much as $3096.

We understand clucks

Seven out of 10 humans can correctly tell if a chicken is happy or not based on their clucks, according to Australian researchers.

A University of Queensland team recruited nearly 200 people and played them recordings of different chicken calls – some where they were expecting a reward and some from other contexts.

The researchers say 69 per cent of participants correctly guessed whether a chicken was excited about a potential reward, and previous experience didn't appear to change how accurate their guesses were.

The researchers say this provides evidence that we may be able to innately perceive the emotions of chickens, which could help us make better choices about their welfare.

Twisted takes on iconic Mickey

AFP

Barely 24 hours after Disney's initial copyright on Mickey Mouse expired, two new indie horror films starring the character have been announced.

Steamboat Willie, the first Disney movie to feature Mickey, entered the public domain under US law on Monday, 95 years on from its initial release.

That means anyone is now free to copy, share, reuse and adapt the primitive, early versions of the characters that appear within the film, including Mickey and girlfriend Minnie.

Despite warnings from Disney that it would seek to safeguard its most iconic character, opportunistic filmmakers had been expected to quickly announce their own unofficial remakes and adaptations – and they did not disappoint.

Mickey's Mouse Trap will feature a masked killer dressed as Mickey stalking a group of young friends through an amusement arcade, while another untitled horror-comedy sees a sadistic mouse tormenting unsuspecting ferry passengers.

"We just wanted to have fun with it all," said Mickey's Mouse Trap director Jamie Bailey, in a trailer posted on YouTube.

"I mean it's Steamboat Willie's Mickey Mouse murdering people. It's ridiculous. We ran with it and had fun doing it and I think it shows."

The low-budget horror-comedy is expected to launch in March.

Meanwhile filmmaker Steven LaMorte – known for The Mean One, a 2022 slasher romp inspired by The Grinch – is working on his own "twisted take" on Mickey.

"Steamboat Willie has brought joy to generations, but beneath that cheerful exterior lies a potential for pure, unhinged terror," he said.

Analysts say Disney is likely to send in the lawyers if anyone oversteps.

Only the earliest, black-and-white version of Mickey is in the public domain – not the colourful character from later Disney films like Fantasia. And trademark protections mean that any film or product that could mislead consumers into thinking it was made by Disney could be liable.

'Redemption unlikely'

Tiffany Bakker

Meghan Markle and Prince Harry won't get the "year of redemption" they are hoping for in 2024, according to a royal author.

The Duke and Duchess of Sussex are said to be planning a fresh start, after facing backlash last year for their Netflix documentary and Prince Harry's bombshell biography, Spare.

"Harry and Meghan have let it be known that they see 2024 as their year of redemption, to which my reaction is 'good luck with that'," said royal expert and author Phil Dampier.

"It's a trite phrase dreamt up by their Hollywood PR people and in reality means very little. Actions speak louder than words and the Sussekses need to do things which will convince the public that they want to redeem themselves, not just talk about it."

The Sussekses' absence was strikingly apparent on Christmas Day when the rest of the royal family, including King Charles, Prince William and Kate Middleton, went to church at Sandringham.

Mr Dampier said the inclusion of Prince Andrew's former wife, Sarah Ferguson, on the Christmas guest list for the first time in years, sent a strong message.

"The royals put on a show of unity at Christmas, with even Prince Andrew's ex-wife Fergie being allowed to walk to church and join them for lunch," he said.

"The message was clear – everyone was welcome except Harry and Meghan."

Mr Dampier said Harry and Meghan could not "compete" with the Prince and Princess of Wales.

"I think the penny has finally dropped with them that they can never compete with an ancient institution admired around the world, particularly the goodwill still lingering from the late Queen's reign," he said.

"William and Kate have never been more popular and the Sussekses can't hold a candle to them."

Hamas deputy killed by drone

Fears conflict will widen

Andrew Koubaridis and Tiffany Bakker

Hamas's deputy leader was killed in an Israeli drone strike in suburban Beirut as Israel's war against Palestinian militants reached Lebanon.

Saleh al-Aruri was killed along with his bodyguards in the strike by Israel, which vowed to destroy Hamas after the movement's unprecedented October 7 attacks on Israel.

Aruri, one of the founders of Hamas' military wing, had headed the group's presence in the West Bank and had been a target for Israel even before the October 7 attack that killed 1,200 Israelis.

Israel has previously announced the killing in Gaza of Hamas commanders and officials during the war, but Aruri is the most high-profile figure to be killed, and his death came in the first strike on the Lebanese capital since the war began. Israeli army spokesman Daniel Hagari did not directly comment on Aruri's killing but said the military was "highly prepared for any scenario" in its aftermath.

A security official in Lebanon confirmed the information about Aruri's killing.

Lebanese state media reported the strike hit a Hamas office in Beirut's southern suburbs, a stronghold of Lebanon's Iran-backed Hezbollah movement, a Hamas ally.

Hamas TV also said Israel had killed Aruri in Lebanon, and Lebanese media reported a total of seven people were killed in the attack by an Israeli drone. The strike fuels widespread fears that the nearly three-month-old Israel-Hamas war could become a wider regional conflict.

Hamas said the killing would not lead to its defeat, while Hezbollah vowed Aruri's death would not go "unpunished".

Hezbollah called it "a serious assault on Lebanon ... and a dangerous development in the course of the war".

Lebanese Prime Minister Najib Mikati condemned the killing and said it "aims to draw Lebanon" further into the Israel-Hamas war.

In a call with Israeli war cabinet member Benny Gantz after the strike, French President Emmanuel Macron urged Israel to "avoid any escalatory attitude, particularly in Lebanon".

Since the fighting began on October 8, the fighting has been concentrated a few kilometres from the border but on several occasions Israel's air force hit Hezbollah targets deeper in Lebanon.

Earlier in the day, Hezbollah said its fighters carried out several attacks along the Lebanon-Israel border targeting Israeli military posts. It comes as Israeli troops announced they had also killed a Hamas commander who helped lead the October 7 attack.

Adil Mismah, the Nukhba Company Commander of the city of Deir al-Balah, was "eliminated," Israeli Defense Forces said via social media.

Mismah had led terrorists into the Kibbutz Kissufim and ordered other gunmen to ravage the communities of Nirim and Be'eri, according to The Jerusalem Post.

The commander was slain in an air strike directed by Israeli ground troops, officials said.

Drugs fear unfounded

A chemical used in the diabetes drug Ozempic and the weight-management drug Wegovy is not associated with an increased risk for suicidal thoughts, US researchers say.

The Case Western Reserve School of Medicine findings about the chemical – known as semaglutide – is significant because this summer the European Medicines Agency (EMA) launched an investigation of its potential dangers.

Semaglutide is a chemical of the glucagon-like peptide receptor (GLP-1R) that helps regulate blood sugar in type 2 diabetes and reduces appetite.

After examining about two million patients, the research team found no evidence to support the EMA's concern that semaglutide may cause suicidal ideations.

Nostradamus' 2024 prophecy comes true

Ben Cost - New York Post

It was a literally groundbreaking prophecy.

As if Nostradamus' foretellings weren't eerily accurate enough, the iconic astrologer was apparently right on the money with yet another apocalyptic prophecy just hours into 2024.

Also known as the Prophet Of Doom, the 16th-century French philosopher is best known for his foreboding forecasts, which he chronicled in his 1555 text "Les Propheties".

These 943 verses are somewhat too vague to be sure, but Nostradamus has been credited with predicting everything from the Rise Of Adolf Hitler to Covid-19 like a 450-year-old Century "Simpsons" cartoon.

This time, the Frenchman was credited with forecasting the powerful earthquake that rocked Japan on New Year's Day. Outlining his predictions for 2024, the oracle wrote, "The dry Earth will become more parched and there will be great floods."

The psychic's followers reckoned that he could've been referring to the 7.5 magnitude tremor that struck the nation's Western coast, killing 48 people, toppling buildings and sparking 1m-high tsunamis.

According to reports, residents in coastal communities fled to higher ground as the waves battered the coast, sweeping houses and cars into the sea.

Nostradamus' prediction was apparently not the only harbinger of a seismic calamity.

Over the summer, divers in Taiwan encountered an injured giant oarfish, the "Doomsday fish" which is said to be a sign of impending earthquakes.

Shield rookies' Windies warm up

Ed Bourke

Promising Sheffield Shield batters Jack Clayton and Teague Wyllie will have a chance to impress the Australian selectors in a three-day tour game against the West Indies next week.

Peter Handscomb, who does not have a BBL contract this season, will lead a Cricket Australia XI at Adelaide's Karen Rolton Oval from January 12 as the inexperienced West Indies side prepares for the two-Test series in Adelaide and Brisbane.

Teague Wyllie

The left-handed Clayton, one of Queensland's top Shield performers this season, and Western Australian young gun Wyllie are the two hottest batting prospects named in a 12-man squad that also includes young Warriors opener Jayden Goodwin and Tasmanian duo Tim Ward and Jake Doran.

Clayton posted a century and three 50s in the first half of the red-ball season, while Wyllie last summer became the youngest batter since Ricky Ponting to score a Shield century but has failed to reach the milestone in 16 first-class matches since.

National selection panel chair George Bailey said he wanted to mix domestic cricket's most consistent performers with some recent Shield debutants for the tour match.

Victorian left-arm orthodox bowler Doug Warren, who has played two first-class games, is the only spinner named in the side, while towering WA left-arm quick Liam Haskett and NSW seamer Jack Nisbet are also Shield debutants.

"CA XI matches provide an excellent opportunity for some of our up-and-coming players on the domestic scene to face international opposition as well as rewarding consistent performers," Bailey said.

Pakistan stages rally

Rizwan, Salman dig in after Aussies dominate early

Mohammad Rizwan and Agha Salman counter-attacked to help Pakistan battle back from a rocky start on the opening day of the third Test against Australia in Sydney.

After being reduced to 96 for five soon after lunch, Rizwan and Salman took on the Australian bowling with a pulsating 94-run stand before Rizwan fell just before tea for 88.

At the interval, Pakistan was 199 for six with Salman on 36 and Sajid Khan seven. The tourists battled on to be 9/261. Rizwan, who had been dropped for the first Test, blasted two sixes and 10 fours off 103 balls before he fell to a legside trap set by Pat Cummins.

Rizwan top-edged a pull shot for Josh Hazlewood to take the catch at fine leg after posting the highest individual score by a Pakistan batsman of the series.

Cummins made the breakthrough as he has done often throughout the series, taking his third wicket of the innings.

Pakistan made a disastrous start after winning the toss, losing four wickets in the opening session and skipper Shan Masood shortly after lunch for 35.

It was a rousing morning session for the Australians, who are looking to send off 37-year-old opening batsman David Warner as a winner in his home city in his 112th and final Test match.

Openers Abdullah Shafique and debutant Saim Ayub were dismissed inside the first two overs.

The out-of-form Shafique fell to the second ball of Mitchell Starc's opening over, needlessly playing a loose drive and nicking a catch to Steve Smith at second slip for a duck.

Ayub, brought in for Imam-ul-Haq to make his Test debut, only lasted two balls before he fell to a Hazlewood out-swinger in the next over, snapped up behind by Alex Carey.

Pakistan lurched to four for two and for a time looked to be consolidating with Babar Azam playing three glorious cover drives to the ropes before he was out on first-hour drinks for 26.

Cummins appealed vociferously for lbw but was turned down by the umpire, only to seek a review and get the verdict he sought, leaving the tourists tottering at 39 for three.

Saud Shakeel copped a nasty blow on the collarbone from a Cummins lifter and in the Australian skipper's next over he prodded a catch behind to Carey for five, leaving his side further in the mire at 47 for four. Masood had a big moment on 32 in the second over after lunch when he was caught by Smith at second slip but it was ruled a no-ball from bowler Mitchell Marsh.

Marsh got the last laugh two overs later when Masood, on 35, again edged the medium-pacer to Smith in almost identical fashion to leave Pakistan at 96 for five. Australia clinched the three-match series with a tense 79-run win in the second Test in Melbourne over Christmas.

'Cool feeling': Aussie young gun's stellar comparison

Ed Bourke

Phoebe Litchfield says it's a "huge honour" to be compared to batting great Meg Lanning after her commanding century fired Australia to a 190-run win over India in the third ODI.

Australia secured a series whitewash in Mumbai after the 20-year-old combined with captain Alyssa Healy for a 189-run opening stand to set up a score of 7-338, with India bundled out for 148 in reply.

Litchfield was stranded for more than 30 minutes in the 90s as Australia at one stage lost 4-27, but she eventually got to her second ODI century and put the innings back on track with Ash Gardner (30 off 27) to post 119 off 125 balls, including 16 fours and a six.

The left-hander's 260 runs at 86.66 had her crowned player of the series as she also became the youngest Australian to pass 50 six times in ODIs, achieving the feat 58 days ahead of a 20-year-old Lanning.

Litchfield said it was a "cool feeling" to earn comparisons to Lanning and Belinda Clark after so quickly becoming one of Australia's best players.

"I looked up to Meg, and recently had Belinda Clark work with our Thunder group, so to be mentioned with those names is a huge honour," she said.

"But I'm trying to take it each day at a time and not think too much into it and just keep scoring runs."

She said her prolonged time in the 90s had been "stressful" but held her nerve after losing a procession of teammates in Healy, Ellyse Perry, Beth Mooney and Tahlia McGrath as India fought back with the ball.

"I thought I was going to bring it up with 'Pez', that was the fairytale, but it took me a long time to get to the hundred and it was nerve-racking to say the least," Litchfield said.

"With the wickets falling around me, it was a bit stressful, but I just stayed really calm. I probably scored each run in singles, just wanting to get there and make the most of that big partnership."

Australia was then at its most clinical with the ball in this series as Megan Schutt removed both Indian openers in her first spell before Georgia Wareham (3-23) and Alana King (2-21) combined to tear through the middle order.

The match also marked a return to form for Healy, who posted her first score above 50 in the format since her devastating 170 in the 2022 World Cup final in New Zealand.

The multi-format tour next moves east to Navi Mumbai for the three T20s beginning on Saturday.

Celebrating love of the club

Few regions can match the Darling Downs when it comes to "loyalty to the badge".

We love our sport clubs and our passion for them never wavers. From cricket in the summer to all the winter codes there was plenty to celebrate in 2023.

Taking a look back at what was a fantastic 2023 The Chronicle has named its top grassroots and elite sports club. Focusing on sportsmanship and results in junior and senior divisions we've built a list featuring clubs from some of our major codes.

Nadal puts men's tour on notice

Martin Gabor

Former world No.1 Rafael Nadal has put the men's tour on notice with an emphatic 7-5 6-1 win over Dominic Thiem in his first singles match in almost a year.

The Spanish maestro has been sidelined by a chronic hip injury since last year's Australian Open, but you wouldn't have known after he blasted the Austrian off the court at the Brisbane International.

The 37-year-old set the tone

with a trademark forehand winner to take the opening point, with Nadal untroubled on serve as the pair traded holds before he claimed the all-important break in the 12th game to snatch the first set.

It was a procession from there, with the 22-time grand slam tournament winner breaking twice in the second set against the man he beat in consecutive French Open finals.

"Today is honestly an emotional and important day for me after probably one of the toughest years of my tennis career, without a doubt," Nadal said after the match. "I had the chance to come back after a year and play in front of an amazing crowd and play, I think, at a very positive level.

"On the first day, it is something that makes us feel proud. Myself, all the team and family that have been there every single day during the past year.

"The first set was equal, with both of us serving well and more or less winning on serve.

"I was able to have that break at 6-5, so that makes the difference. Honestly, I know Dominic has gone through some hard times with injuries too, so I'm happy to see him on court and I wish him the very best for the season."

Some of Nadal's groundstrokes looked like he'd gone back in time to when he was unbeatable, which makes you wonder just how good he can be once he gets more match practice under his belt.

Nadal only made his competitive return in the doubles a few days ago and next faces Aussie Jason Kubler on Thursday as he prepares for the first grand slam event of the year.

"I had the chance to receive thousands of messages during this year and having great people next to me every single day makes the difference, without a doubt," he said. "I missed being healthy, I missed feeling competitive and playing in front of full crowds like this."

In other results in Brisbane, Rinky Hijikata eliminated fellow Aussie Thanasi Kokkinakis in straight sets, while two-time Australian Open winner Victoria Azarenka also booked her spot in the round of 16.

Giddey stars in thriller

Josh Giddey has delivered his best performance of what has been a difficult season as the Oklahoma City Thunder secured an impressive win over Eastern Conference powerhouse Boston on Wednesday.

The 21-year-old drained four threes on his way to a season-high 23 points to go with eight rebounds and six assists.

It helped propel the Thunder to a 127-123 win over the Celtics in what lived up to the billing of a top of the table clash. The Celtics sit first in the East while the Thunder are second in the Western Conference.

The Thunder looked set for a comfortable win after extending their lead out to 18 points in the fourth quarter only for the Celtics to mount a late comeback, capitalising on a series of turnovers from Oklahoma to move to within two points with a minute to go.

The Thunder settled, however, and closed the game out thanks to 36 points from point guard Shai Gilgeous-Alexander and two clutch late free throws from Giddey.

It was their fifth straight win, a run that includes beating the current top teams in the East and West plus the reigning champions.

It continues a strong run of recent form for Giddey who equalled a career-high four three-pointers in a 20-point display against the Brooklyn Nets on New Year's Day.

The NBA world was impressed with what they saw from the Australian who has struggled this season and found his minutes reduced.

That has prompted speculation the Thunder, who hold a bounty of draft picks, could be motivated to make a trade before the deadline.

Wednesday's performance will go a long way to showing Giddey has an important role alongside Thunder trio Gilgeous-Alexander, Chet Holmgren and Jalen Williams.

Sylph VI skipper and owner Robert 'Bob' Williams, with his cat Oli, created a new record for the boat – the slowest trip in the Australian blue water classic. Picture: Adam Yip

Oli the cat has last meow

The two-hander Sylph VI – with Oli the cat aboard – was the 85th and last boat to finish the 2023 Sydney to Hobart to a hero's welcome while several big names have already confirmed they will miss the 2024 edition south.

Emotional skipper Bob Williams, crewmate Chris Warren and feline Oli the cat arrived in Hobart at 8.26am on Wednesday with a record for the boat – its slowest ever trip in the Australian blue water classic.

The agonisingly slow journey saw them arrive seven days, 19 hours, 26 minutes and 15 seconds after Sylph started the race at 1pm on Boxing Day.

Sylph's previous slowest Sydney to Hobart race was set in 1962 when she took seven days, 17 hours, 13 minutes and two seconds.

But there was one good bit of news for the team on the race tailender – they just managed to avoid finishing last in the PHS handicap race.

Sylph VI's slow progress saw her finish second last in the PHS handicap division, won by Will Vicars' Oron Drumfire, with David Hows' Silver Fern earning the dubious honour of finishing last in this division of the race.

"I think it's quite amazing the way people have taken to Oli," said Williams, a retired naval officer.

"He's just a part of my crew, wherever I sail."

Sylph VI's trip was five days slower than Christian Beck's LawConnect, which pipped Andoo Comanche by 51 seconds in the closest finish in decades for the line honours on December 28 at 8.03am.

Aussies' Asia Cup belief

Qatar 'a happy place'

Martin Gabor

It's been nine years since their famous Asian Cup win on home soil and Socceroos star Craig Goodwin "genuinely believes" the Aussies can go all the way at this year's tournament in Qatar that begins next week.

The Socceroos are one of the favourites to win the event on the back of their strong World Cup showing in 2022 and they'll be out to make an early statement when they face Bahrain in a warm-up match on Sunday morning.

The match will be a great chance for some of the players to get used to the hot conditions in the Middle East – something Goodwin has grown accustomed to at his Saudi club Al-Wehda where he scored a goal and set another up last week.

The Socceroos are 25th in the FIFA rankings, with Japan, Iran and South Korea the only Asian nations ahead of them.

It's why there's a quiet optimism they can go all the way having reached the quarter-finals in 2019 when they were bundled out by the UAE.

"I genuinely believe we have the squad to win the Asian Cup," Goodwin said.

"It's going to be hard and difficult but we have a good group with a good mentality. We have the potential to do something special here."

Australia opens its campaign against India next Saturday before taking on Syria and Uzbekistan in Group B.

It's easy to get caught up in the emotion of the Socceroos returning to Qatar, where they got past the group stage and were eventually knocked out by Lionel Messi and Argentina, who went on to win the World Cup, but Goodwin said it was a clean slate this time around.

"Qatar has been a happy place for myself and for us but it's about coming in with a different mindset and mentality. Coming in with more hunger to do more great things here," he said.

"None of us can get caught up in the thought process that we've done well here in the past and that it's going to come easy."

"We have aspirations to win the Asian Cup and to do that we have to have a ruthless mentality and to be focused on what's coming next."

"Although we're very happy with what we've done here in the past, that is in the past and we've got the here and now to focus on to try to bring the Asian Cup back to Australia."

Chidiac's desperate for more game time

Alex Chidiac doesn't normally get nervous but with so little time spent on a football field last year that was how she felt sitting on the bench in her Melbourne Victory kit.

The 24-year-old, who has donned the Matildas jersey 33 times since 2015, is just desperate to get back to doing the thing she loves – playing football.

Chidiac was named in the World Cup squad but given limited minutes off the bench in three matches.

After the World Cup she was relegated to the bench at the Mexican club at which she was on loan and dumped from the Matildas squad for the two-match friendly series against Canada last month.

She was eventually recalled to the Matildas following injuries to Sam Kerr and Holly McNamara.

The dynamic midfielder has re-signed with Melbourne Victory in the hope of increasing her game time and getting her mojo back.

Chidiac launched her professional football career in 2014 at age 15 with her home club Adelaide United in the then W-League. She played nine games and scored a goal.

Snoop out for Games scoop as NBC reporter

Rapper Snoop Dogg will be a special reporter for US broadcaster NBC at the Paris Olympics this year.

The network has announced he will reprise his star turn at the Tokyo Games that delighted viewers.

"I grew up watching the Olympics and am thrilled to see the incredible athletes bring their A-game to Paris," Snoop Dogg said.

NBC's vice president of Olympic production, Molly Solomon, said Snoop's commentating on dressage at the Tokyo Olympics had gone viral and "earned Snoop a job as our special correspondent in Paris".

"We don't know what the heck is going to happen every day but we know he will add his unique perspective to our re-imagined Olympic prime-time show," Solomon said.

In a video, the Drop It Like It's Hot rapper brings his signature style and humour to interviews with athletes.

Teen Littler takes aim at darts title

Teenage darts sensation Luke Littler has brushed aside eighth seed Rob Cross to advance into the final of the world championship.

Littler started nervously and lost the first set to Cross, the 2018 world champion, who averaged 108.7 to his younger counterpart's average of 103.2.

But the 16-year-old quickly found the form that has made him a household name in England. Though he averaged 98.7 to Cross' 108.3 in the second set, Littler nailed 75 per cent of his doubles while Cross had a sloppy conversion rate of just 29 per cent as the teen levelled the contest.

Despite Cross' best efforts – including an absurdly-high average of 114.5 in the fourth set – Littler gave his rival nothing as he won two consecutive sets to take a 3-1 lead.

Cross managed to snatch the fifth set despite averaging 91.7 to Littler's 98.2, but it only added fuel for the teenager to fire on the biggest stage.

Littler is to next meet the winner of the other semi final, which is between Scott Williams and world No.3 Luke Humphries, in the world championships final.
